70 Red Buckets of Surprises!

“ Our company is involved heavily in the nuclear power industry and our customer base has very unique and time sensitive coating requirements. I can call John day or night about a potential project and he responds immediately, and always with his sense of humor and ‘Southern Gentleman’ charm. Many, many times he has jumped through hoops to get us data sheets, answer technical questions, come up with estimates and pricing while knowing the project may evaporate as quickly as it appeared. And he does that without ever getting the impression he is frustrated or discouraged. He is the main reason our company is so loyal to the Carboline product and we will never recommend or ‘spec in’ a proposal document anything but a Carboline product. And that is because of John! ”
